Story

"My child wants to play on the internet, so I decide to open kindergarten website to have fun and learning new things. We register as a male child and find the website have changed, its color becomes blue. There are multiple options to choose from videos, games, players, lessons and more. We choose games and start playing. After each level there is a question to test if the child understand the goal of the level or not. There is a dashboard for the scores of all children. It is possible to contact with other children. I found Italian songs; it is a good idea to help my child learn a new language. Unfortunately I have no more time to stay with my child at the website so we log out."
